NATURE UNLEASHED FIELD EXPERIENCE GUIDELINES*

OBJECTIVES

Students participating in Nature Unleashed field experiences will:

- be introduced to a new (and possibly unfamiliar) ecosystem
- explore and investigate a new (and possibly unfamiliar) ecosystem
- demonstrate and apply skills and knowledge gained from Nature Unleashed activities to the planning of the experience and exploration of a new ecosystem
- demonstrate and apply use of science notebooks
- pose questions and predict answers to those questions about the new ecosystem
- plan, collect and organize data while conducting simple field investigations
- present findings and conclusions relating to the field investigations of the new ecosystem

In order to qualify for reimbursement of transportation costs for field experiences taken in conjunction with the Nature Unleashed unit, field experiences:

- must occur at a natural, outdoor area/ecosystem (for example: conservation area; state park; national forest; private property with areas representative of Missouri's ecosystems included in the Nature Unleashed student book; etc.)
- must provide students with opportunities to apply inquiry and field investigation skills and knowledge gained through activities in the Nature Unleashed unit
 - to an outdoor, natural area/ecosystem very different from their schoolyard ecosystem and/or
 - to an outdoor, natural area/ecosystem reflecting at least one of the ecosystems discussed in the More to Explore supplement section of the student book and/or
 - to an outdoor, natural area/ecosystem reflecting a pond, forest or prairie ecosystem that students would not normally have an opportunity to visit or explore

Meaningful opportunities for students to apply the knowledge and skills fully to the field trip experience should include:

- pre-trip planning time for students to research the new ecosystem, pose questions, predict answers and plan simple field investigation strategies
- ample time for students to conduct simple, hands-on field investigations that allow students
 - to observe the living and non-living components of the ecosystem and the interactions among those components
 - to collect data related to and in support of their predictions
- ample post-trip time for students
 - to organize their data
 - to prepare and present short class presentations on their field investigations and findings/conclusions
- opportunities for students to demonstrate and apply skills gained through Nature Unleashed optional compass activities; compass field trip activities could possibly be prepared and set up by students for other students/teachers)

* Tours, demonstrations and indoor nature programs are acceptable minor components as long as the majority of the field experiences are composed of hands-on and experiential learning activities that meet objectives outlined above. Field experiences that provide only tours, lectures or demonstration stations do not qualify as Nature Unleashed field experiences.
